George Mason University graduate policy allows students to transfer credits taken prior to enrollment in their current graduate program, with proper approvals. These credits may include those earned through GMU Extended Studies, through another GMU graduate program, or from another institution. Please refer to the Academic Policies section of the current university catalog for transfer credit policy information. Some graduate programs may have stricter transfer credit policies. Students should contact their programs for assistance.

Credits Earned at GMU (through Extended Studies or through another GMU graduate program)
